Federal Debt Rising

Spending on the vast scale planned by President Roosevelt for 1931-35 will raise the national debt in 1935 to an all-time high of approximately 32 billions, as shown by this chart, giving the course of the debt since 1915. An unprecedented peak was reached on August 31, 1919, few months after close of the World War, when the debt was $26,691,000,000. They felt, until on June 30, 1930, it had dropped to $16,185,000,000. Then came the new climb in which it has soared far past the high mark of the immediate post-war period. From 1935 to 1935, it was almost stationary around the one billion mark.

8 Billions Must Be Spent by Next June

Of 7 Billions Allotted for Recovery, Only 1½ Billion Actually Used Up to January 9

WASHINGTON—(P)—Federal expenditures for the fiscal year Thursday passed the 3-billion mark, leaving 8 billions to be spent before June 30 to fulfill President Roosevelt's budget estimates.

Hope Is Scheduled to Get One of 10 Centennial Parks

$75,000 Project Available Here If PWA Plan Is Approved

120 ACRES NEEDED

Park Selections to Be Made From Best Community Offers

LITTLE ROCK—Hasty action is requested by the Arkansas Centennial Commission, on the part of all localities of the state that desire consideration in the location of Recreational Areas.

The committee having the selection of area sites is now touring the state, intent upon locating the ten most attractive places, with twenty or more suggested sites to be inspected. W. F. Scarborough, of Batesville, is chairman of the committee, and communities desiring consideration should immediately file their applications with him.

A preliminary application has been filed with the Public Works Administration for a loan of $750,000 with which to construct, and maintain, ten recreational areas, as self-liquidating projects. It is contemplated that $50,000 will be invested in buildings at each site, and $15,000 in improving the grounds. The buildings, in the mountain areas, will be of stone, a lodge, with cottages surrounding it. In the alluvial country, native wood will be utilized. All buildings will be equipped with modern conveniences and the cottages will each have a large fireplace. A swimming pool will be constructed on the grounds.

In order to comply with requirements of the Public Works Administration, the ten sites have been tentatively filed as in the vicinity of Winslow, Mena, Hot Springs, Burrek Springs, Forrest City, Jasper, Batesville, Bibb Lake, Hope, and Lake Village.

Such being the case, it is likely that the projects will definitely be located near these places. The competition is yet open to the entire state and if more desirable locations are found elsewhere, changes will be made accordingly.

Require 120 Acres
Selections will be made upon scenery, accessibility, and co-operation manifested by the community. At least 120 acres of ground will be acquired for each site, and more will be located within the corporate limits of a city or town.

As these areas will attract thousands of motorists from other states, through a nation-wide advertising campaign to be conducted by the Centennial Commission, intense rivalry between sections of the state to secure them, is more than justified.

Miss Monroe Heads Survey of Mortgages

Miss Ella Monroe, of Washington, has been named Hempstead county leader for a CWA project calling for a detailed survey of farm mortgages and land values all over Arkansas.

C. O. Brannen is state director of the project and county leaders are being selected for each county. Heavily armed Scott of Fayetteville, La.; O. B. Young of Jonesboro, La.; Howard W. Luther of Little Rock, La.

Some of these sturdy, hearty dishes of the camp and trail still yield a tempting aroma for moderns—particularly beans, declares Mrs. Martha McDonald, who is to conduct a free cooking school for women readers of the Star next week at the Saenger. The camp cook and the Old West who let his pork and beans shimmer all night over the hot coals knew the secret of a delicious dish, she says, which in this particular instance was slow and gentle cooking.

The chuck wagon generally carried beans, beans and few canned goods. The cook's one delicacy was pie, always of canned or dried apples enclosed in a crust that only he, in his rugged role as camp cook, dared to make. To beans and bacon he sometimes added Spanish onions and canned tomatoes. A stray yearling furnished fresh meat; coffee was swilled sending hot, usually without sugar, and always without cream.

Lucky, indeed, was the cow outfit who carried a highly-prized cook, one who really took seriously the nautical job of feeding cowboys. A cowboy's life, full of pork and beans, who followed a widely known range outfit in 1871, and the luxurious menus he turned out of his trail kitchen for his cowboys: His meat was usually from a fat heifer, often ribs broiled before the campfire and an oven of iron with this he cooked sweet breads and heart, mixed in gravy, with corn bread, molasses and black coffee; and for breakfast, the aromatic pot of pork and beans which had simmered over hot coals all night.

Lone Trail Fare
Not always did the cowboy have even the pleasure of chuck wagon "chow." Often, with only his canteen and six-shooter for company he rode range, over a lonesome trail for miles, camping alone at night by his solitary campfire. His main diet in such cases was the historic "frying pan" bread. The cowboy spread a thick batter over the bottom of his pan, the latter laid upon hot coals for a moment until the lower crust commenced to form. The dexterous cowboy then tipped the pan and held it far enough from the fire for a little heat to reach it until the loaf was raised. The pan was then pushed to within baking distance of the coals until the bread was thoroughly cooked.

The bread then vacated the pan, and into it went the cowboy's handful of coffee and sufficient water, which was allowed to boil to a strong, bitter-black stage. Whereupon the lone cowboy consumed his campfire supper, unrolled his blanket and went soundly to sleep with his after-dinner music the long drawn howls of the coyote.

The trail cook usually "knew his beans." Mrs. McDonald points out, and even these long past days knew many of the secrets of good cooking which she will use in demonstrating her range recipes during her free cooking school.

State Demands Death Penalty for White-Faced Prisoner

SHE REMAINS CALM

First Jurymen Admits No Prejudice Against Death Penalty

CHICAGO—(P)—The Wynekoop murder mystery went to trial Thursday with the prosecution asking the death penalty for Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop for the death of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, on the operating table. The aged physician heard the state's attorney ask the first jurymen whether he had any scruples against the death penalty if she were found guilty.

The venireman replied in the negative. The aged woman showed no expression except one of intense interest.

A near riot broke out among the 2,000 spectators as Dr. Wynekoop entered the criminal court building.

The physician's face was deathly white as she walked up the steps to a seat at her counsel's table after being pushed on a wheel-chair into Judge David's chambers.

Deputy sheriffs and bailiffs vainly tried to keep the screaming and shouting crowds in line until the 200 seats in the courtroom were filled and the chief bailiff ordered the corridors cleared.

The crowd was comprised mostly of women.

Cotton Acreage Plan May Use CWA Labor

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—The use of CWA personnel to carry out the government's cotton acreage reduction plan will be sought in a project filed with State Director Dyess Thursday by T. Roy Reid, assistant director of the State Extension Service, Thursday. It will call for 1,500 workers who will be taken from the present Civil Works roll and will not constitute a new allotment.

Legislature Nears Refunding Decision

Revised Draft of Bill Under Debate in Both Houses

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—The new refunding bill bearing an unreserved endorsement by Governor Futrell except for a minor provision, claimed the attention of both houses of the legislature Thursday. The senate voted to give right of way to the refunding measure over all other legislation.

The house, before going into a committee of the whole to consider refunding, passed a bill appropriating another $12,000 for expenses.

The Arkansas County Judges association, meeting here Thursday debated a resolution attacking the high-way refunding bill which would take away half of their "turnback" fund.

The judges contended the state should take only a quarter, leaving the balance for use in county road programs.

Moratorium on Mortgages

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Luther Wilkes announced in the house Thursday that Governor Futrell had instructed him to say he wanted a bond refunding bill passed immediately so that he could call another special session to enact a mortgage moratorium law similar to the Minnesota law which has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

Futrell Urges Action

LITTLE ROCK—"I think the bill as introduced in both the house and the senate Wednesday with the amendment providing for the refund of the tax on gasoline used for agricultural purposes should be passed without further amendment," said a statement issued by Governor Futrell Wednesday night.

Close advisors of the governor said that his statement was issued in response to a demand by many members of the legislature that the governor make his position plain. These advisors said that the governor had in no wise modified his position that the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the government should be separate and distinct but that in the present crisis, he was willing to assume the responsibility of recommending that the legislature pass the pending bill without further amendment.

The governor's statement follows: "I regret the dire necessity which demands the enactment of any refunding law. I wish it had been a part of our constitution that bonds could not be issued until the people had voted for the same to be done. I regret that the original program to issue $52,000,000, only, had been adhered to. If it had been done, we would not be in our present trouble."

"Those are responsible for this predicament who made it possible to issue and sell bonds until the state's credit was completely broken down with an indebtedness far beyond the capacity of the people to pay within any reasonable time, but this is water over the dam. It cannot be helped."

"The question is—what can be done to save the home of the people? The mortgage on the lands of the people remains. The question is—shall the state permit the homes of the people to be sold for a debt which the state justly owes and should pay? I say not."

"If we resort to methods of raising revenue not in line with the agreement, we may fail for that very reason. For instance, if we resort to natural gas, litigation will undoubtedly follow, which will perhaps not be settled for a year. This would result in breaching our agreement and making default on the very threshold of an attempt to carry out the refunding agreement."

"I think the bill as introduced in both the house and senate Wednesday with the amendment providing for the refund of the tax on gasoline used for agricultural purposes should be passed without further amendment."

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—You travel the country over. You hear much said about money. But you never hear a word about the moral aspect of going off the gold standard until you get to New England.

Here the government's repudiation of its promise to pay in gold was a profound shock, not only to readers of the Boston Transcript, who write indignantly that "there are such things as honor and honesty," but to almost everyone of any substance.

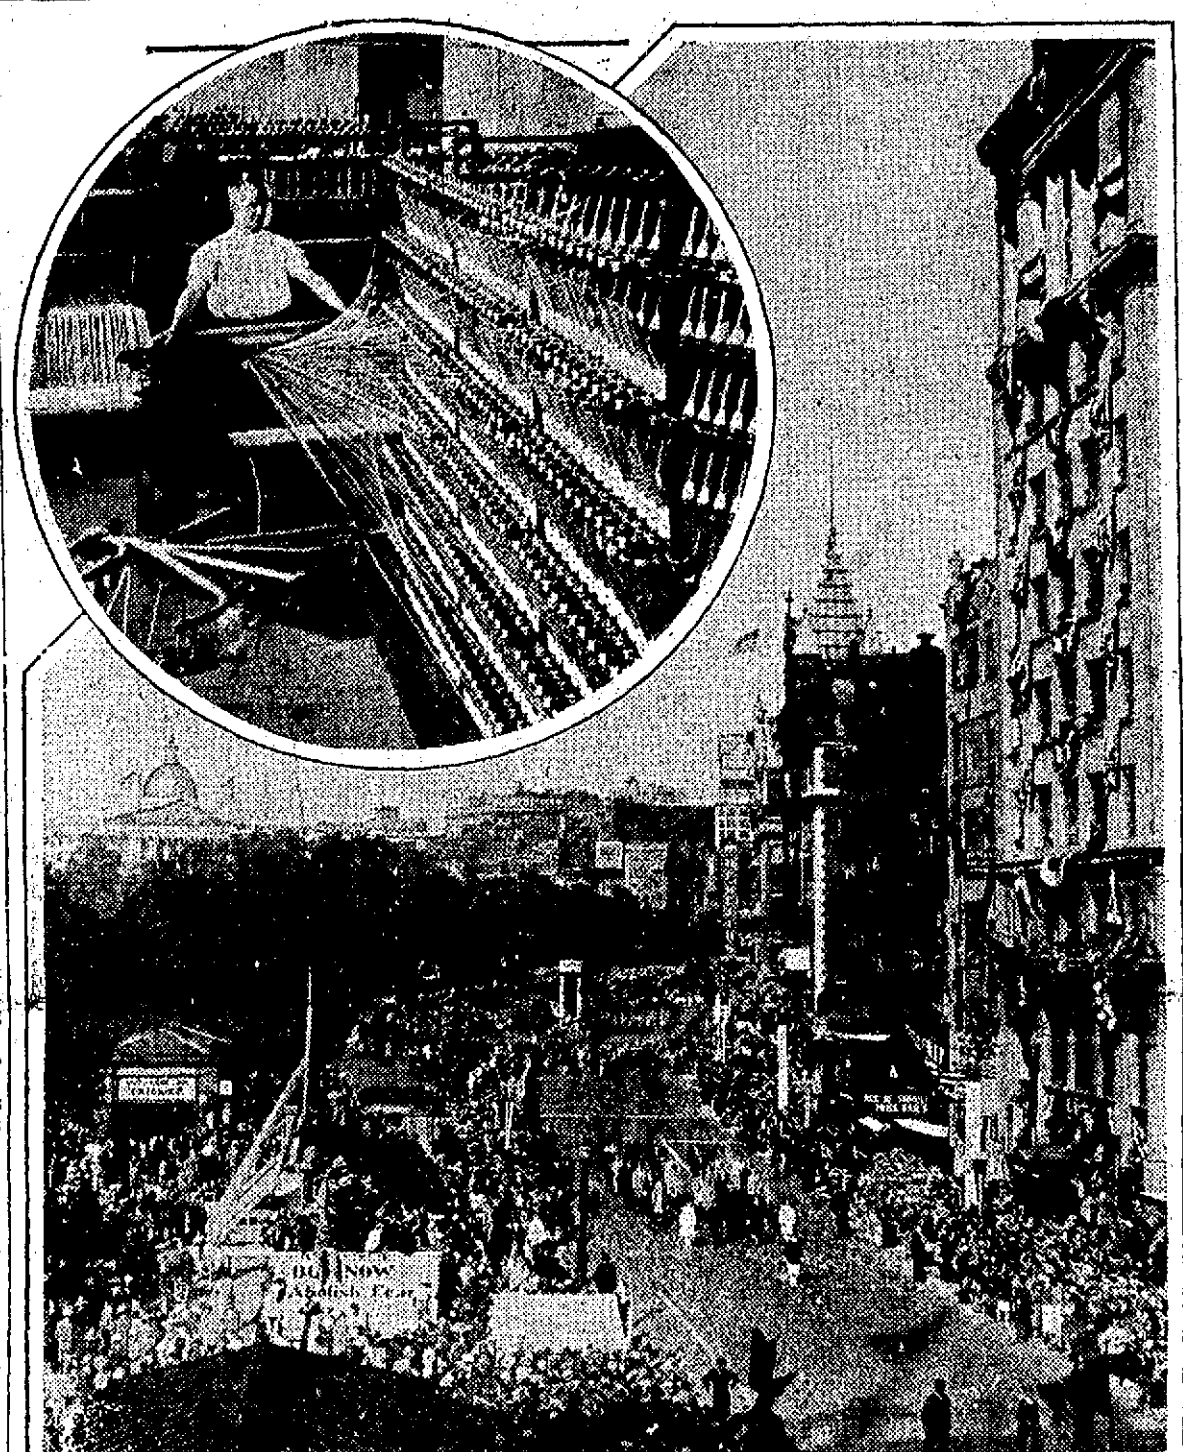

Bankers tell you of this initial shock, the tremors from which still can be felt, months afterward. Then they tell you that it began to subside as soon as people found that as a practical matter of their daily life it made little or no difference.

Savings at High Mark
It is not for nothing that New England is insurance and mutual savings bank headquarters for the nation. Mutual savings bank deposits in Massachusetts are almost as high as they were in 1929, and never declined much even during the banking holiday.

In Springfield they amount to an average of $553.53 for every man, woman and child in the city. So money is important here in a way that it is not important in Fort Worth, Texas, for example, and the distrust of monetary tinkering is seen plainly on every hand.

Hospital Benefit Picture Jan. 17th

Warner Baxter in Special Film at Saenger Next Wednesday

A motion picture benefit for the Julia Chester hospital will be given next Wednesday night, January 17, at the Saenger theater, it was announced by the Hope and Hempstead County Hospital association, operators of the hospital.

The picture will be "As Husbands Go," featuring Warner Baxter and Helen Vinson.

The author, Rachel Crothers has that rare knack of sketching her characters from life and having them say things that everyone thinks. In "As Husbands Go," she has written of a situation close to every home and every woman.

On a pleasure jaunt in Paris, a young wife and her romance. Before returning home, the young wife in forms the young Englishman she has become infatuated with, that she will secure a divorce from her husband. Upon her return she is determined to tell her husband of her new love, but his charming sweetness is impossible for her to penetrate. The situation becomes more embarrassing when the lover arrives. The husband welcomes him with open arms, and even he discovers that he is the man his wife is in love with, he is determined to find out what sort of man he is. The Englishman's admiration for the husband becomes so great, that he feels his presence is an injustice and so he departs. The young wife realizing her grave mistake returns once more to the love of her husband.

Warner Baxter who was last seen in "Paddy, The Next Best Thing," has for his leading lady, Helen Vinson, who gave a splendid performance in "The Power and the Glory."

The other members of the cast are Warner Oland, Catharine Doucet of stage fame, G. P. Huntley, Jr., Frank O'Connor, Eleanor Lynn and Jay Ward.

Hamilton MacFadden directed from Sonya Levien's screen play.

The Little Rock program, which had not been completed Thursday will follow.

The Henderson State Teachers college band, a 30-piece organization, is scheduled to appear.

A special train will leave Little Rock Friday afternoon, bringing Missouri Pacific Boosters and visitors here from Benton, Malvern, Donaldson, Arkadelphia, Gurdon and Prescott.

A delegation will come here from Texarkana on an earlier train. Persons attending from Nashville will arrive on a special coach running from that city.

Well, skatin' is a swell way t' take off th' t'onnage

Yeah, if y' like to have it knocked off

Marching Backwards!

MEBBE YOU'D BETTER STICK TO YOUR SETTIN'-UP EXERCISES

OH—BUT THAT'S SO MONOTONOUS

By MARTIN

WELL, I CAN'T THINK OF ANYTHING MORE MONOTONOUS THAN PICKIN' YOURSELF UP OFFA TH' ICE

RIGHT

OOOOO! AM I GLAD TO BE AWAY FROM THAT AWFUL THING! POOR UMPATEEDLE! I HATE TO HAFTA REPORT HER DEMISE TO OLL KING GUZZLE!

What?

YOUR MAJESTY—UMPATEEDLE, THE QUEEN HAS BEEN EY UP BY A BIG IGUANADON!

WHAT?

DO YOU MEAN TO TELL ME QUEEN UMPATEEDLE IS NO MORE? THAT A DINOSAUR GOT 'ER?

YEZZIR—THERE WAS NUTHIN WE COULD DO! IT MADE RIGHT FOR HER! WE BARELY ESCAPED WITH OUR LIVES!

Quick Silver!

LATER: GOT A TEN SPOT, WASH?

SURE, COME UPSTAIRS.

By CRANE

MY GOSH! LOOK!

IS IT GONE? NO! IT'S BEEN CHANGED INTO SILVER.

WASH TUBBS

AH! A SECRET SAFE—WITH ALL TH' SPOOKY STUFF GOIN' ON AROUND HERE, I BETTER HIDE MY MONEY.

There! Sixty Bucks in Good Ol' Greenbacks.

THERE! SIXTY BUCKS IN GOOD OL' GREENBACKS.

They Agree on One Thing!

NO, SIR...THEY'RE MARKED FOR IMPORTANT DATES IN HISTORY! FOR INSTANCE, I'LL SET THE CONTROLS AT 1492 AND, IF IT WORKS, WE'LL HEAR COLUMBUS!

ARE THESE DOOHICKIES MARKED FOR KILOCYCLES?

By BLOSSER

THAT'S WHY WE PLUGGED IN ON THE HIGH-VOLTAGE CIRCUIT...WE'RE GONNA NEED THAT POWER TO BRING THINGS FROM OUT OF THE PAST!!

JUST THINK WHAT THAT'LL MEAN...JUST SUPPOSE YOU COULD BRING BACK SOME DATE...WHAT DATE WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

THE ONE I HAD WITH A LITTLE BLONDE FROM THE FOLLIES, IN 1915!!

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

HE TROUBLE-SHOOTER FROM THE LIGHT DEPARTMENT BECOMES INTERESTED IN NUTTY'S INVENTION.

THE NEWFANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

I CAN CLEAN UP FOR YOU IN REAL ESTATE—IT'S A PIPE! JUST RAISE THE RENTS UNTIL YOU SHOW A BIG RETURN ON YOUR INVESTMENT AND THEN SELL AT A BIG PROFIT

HUH? SAY! THEY'VE A CHANCE, RIGHT DOWN THE ROAD A PIECE, FOR A SMART FELLE LIKE YOU TO MAKE A KILLIN'

IT'S A BIG PLACE, WHERE A LOT OF PEOPLE 'ER LIVIN' WHO'S BEEN PAYIN' THE SAME RENT FER TWENTY YEARS

THAT SOUNDS LIKE A PERFECT SET-UP! WHERE IS IT? I'D LIKE T'LOOK IT OVER

Windy Handles 'Em!

IT'S TWO MILES STRAIGHT DOWN THAT-A-WAY! A BIG GRAY STONE HOUSE, ON YER RIGHT—YE CAN'T MISS IT

WOON! WAIT TILL HE FINDS OUT I SENT HIM TO THE POOR FARM—SERVES 'IM RIGHT!

YA CAN'T GIT THE BEST OF WINDY! A WHEEL WITH A WHEEL—DA GET IT?

By COWAN

WON'T WAIT TILL HE FINDS OUT I SENT HIM TO THE POOR FARM—SERVES 'IM RIGHT!

YA CAN'T GIT THE BEST OF WINDY! A WHEEL WITH A WHEEL—DA GET IT?
